《第十三堂課》

止於至善，有玩沒完

從 “alphabetical thingy” 到 “it remains a mystery” 看創「作文」字為何是

「不用假設的永遠進行的未完成式」

7月8日	中英文法
1	Once upon a time, in a land which is far, far away, there lived, among rats, cats, and bats, a mouse.
2	At the same time, in another land not so far away from this land, there lived, among cakes, crackers, and cameras, a cheese.
3	So, there you have it, a mouse and a cheese.
4	Or, if you're into that whole “alphabetical order” thingy: a cheese and a mouse.
5	Anyway, one day, after Lord-knows-how-long of starvation, the mouse was hungry.
6	He looked, searched, failed, and had nothing to eat.
7	By the way, on the same day, after Lord-knows-how-long of meditation, the cheese was there.
8	It sat, breathed, aged, and had nowhere to go.
9	Suddenly, out of nowhere, the mouse saw the cheese.
10	Unfortunately, out of curiosity, the cheese saw the mouse.
11	Subsequently, out of logicity, they saw each other.
12	Ultimately, out of necessity, one ate the other.
13	And so there we have it, happily ever after..
14	In fact, till this day, it remains a mystery in what exact fashion they managed to live happily in each other.
